Background on Dawn Langstroth

Dawn Langstroth knew from an early age that singing was her passion. Music filled her home during her growing up years. Mom, Anne Murray sang, Dad, Bill Langstroth played guitar, and Dawn was quick to join in school musicals and choirs.

In 1996, Dawn made her recording debut, singing background vocals with Jann Arden, on The Other Side for Anne Murray's self-titled CD. She followed this up in 1999 with the duet single and video Let There Be Love, also recorded with Anne Murray from her platinum selling album, What A Wonderful World.

Focusing on songwriting for the past six years, Dawn has composed an impressive catalogue of songs with such writing partners as David Martin, Ron Sexsmith, Matthew Gerrard and Christopher Ward. Other songwriters who have teamed up with Dawn include Anthony Vanderburgh, Craig Northey, Chin Injeti, Geoff Gibbons, David Reimer, Troy Samson and Mike James.

Dawn completed a very successful Canadian tour with The Rankin Family in 2007 to impressive reviews. Her tour dates were supported by her first release, a self-titled five song EP.

In the summer of 2007, Dawn worked with legendary producers, Phil Ramone and Al Schmidt when she appeared on Anne Murray's double platinum release Duets Friends & Legends. Following the release of her second five song EP, No Mercy, which was co-produced by George Massenburg and Jon Randall, Dawn was on tour as special guest of Anne Murray performing to audiences in more than 55 cities in the U.S. and Canada.

Last year, Dawn toured in support of her two independent EP releases, opening for Marc Jordan and David Clayton-Thomas and took the stage at theatres and festivals in Ontario and Prince Edward Island.

Dawn's signature voice and soulful songs have already turned heads and gained recognition for her as an entertainer to watch as she continues to perform in venues from coast to coast.

“Her voice is spectacular; her songs are more than promising... she’s a rare talent, another champ in the making.” – Toronto Star
